Each of the winning teams will compete (virtually or in-person) as "Team USA" in the global Young Lions competition at the 67th Cannes Lions International Festival of Creativity, the world's leading celebration of creativity in communications, taking place from June 21-25, 2021.

The teams were challenged to develop a creative and innovative campaign in their respective categories that would raise awareness for CureSearch for Children's Cancer, a national nonprofit organization that works to end childhood cancer by driving targeted and innovative research with measurable results in an accelerated time frame. The campaign goals were to raise awareness of CureSearch within the corporate community, with a focus on identifying and engaging potential corporate partnerships to generate an additional $2 million in support over the course of the next 18 months. The campaign also aimed to educate potential donors on the urgent need for childhood cancer funding and CureSearch's unique and measurable impact in the pediatric cancer space.

Kay Koehler, CEO, CureSearch notes that, "As the only children's cancer nonprofit focused solely on accelerating the development of new treatment options for kids, CureSearch was thrilled to be selected to participate in the Young Lions competition. Given our limited marketing budget, it's been extremely valuable and inspiring to see these brilliant young teams compete and create engaging campaigns to build awareness of the current treatment protocols for children with cancer – treatments which are often 30 years old – and to drive new support for our critical mission. We are also most appreciative of the time, effort, and energy the esteemed judges generously gave to the 45 children diagnosed with cancer every day."

Cliff Marks, President of National CineMedia (NCM), added, "The work and the compassion exhibited by the Young Lion participants was extraordinary and will benefit CureSearch, the families, and most importantly, the kids, for years to come. NCM is thrilled to be able to bring so much brilliant thought and executable ideas to a charity that is fighting to reduce childhood cancer and give so many families the hope to see their kids live happy, healthy lives."
